Prevent rising health care costs by offering convenient access to quality on-site medical care.

Employees defer care due to the inconvenience and the expense. When they do, it hurts both the employee and employer. The employee risks their health, and the employer risks higher health care costs and decreased productivity at work. The Working Clinic™ provides employees with a convenient option for urgent care and preventative services, right from your facility. The Working Clinic™ provides a unique delivery model where there is no downtime or reason to leave work for an appointment.

Increase employee productivity and lower their individual healthcare costs.

Work-site clinics are a tool to contain the relentless growth in medical costs, but many employers also seek to boost employee productivity and enhance companies' reputations as employers of choice. The Working Clinic™ is unique in its ability to deliver cost-effective options for smaller employers (200+) and more efficient options for larger employers (1,000+).

Improve benefits planning by understanding the overall health of your employees.

As part of every on-site patient visit, a process of health status review with a clinical summary is conducted and then placed within our electronic medical record system to provide a forward-facing view of your employees' population health status. The process allows us to provide you with high-level, evidence-based information about special health risks that exist or may be emerging among your employees for better benefits planning

Quarterly employer ROI reports provided.

High-Tech Health Care

The Working Clinic™ can address 95% of conditions treated at regular physician offices, prescribe specific medications for conditions and provide individualized treatment for follow-up with the same physician. We use advanced telemedicine technologies to provide immediate access to a physician with less time away for doctor visits and fewer insurance claims from office visits, urgent care and ER visits

More than a phone call: clinical examinations via telemedicine technologies

A full diagnostic physical examination is done between the patient and a consulting (remote) physician, with the medic on-site to facilitate the exam. The on-site medic connects with the remote physician using two-way video conferencing and is able to do the exam using specialty medical devices. Medical devices collect (and share in real-time with the physician) information such as a vital signs, heart and lung sounds, and images from an examination camera, ear/nose/throat scope, dermascope, ultrasound probes, ECG equipment etc.

OnDemand Visit™ for employees on the go or dependents at home.

As an additional service, you may want to consider OnDemand Visit™. Your employees (and their families) can connect to a doctor over video using the OnDemand Visit™ App, regardless of where they are located. This is especially important for those employees who travel (or are on the road) and their covered dependents, to have access to the same medical care they would have at the on-site clinic. They can easily connect using any personal mobile device or computer.

Sharing key health information, the right way.

It is critical for employees to be able to share their medical information from The Working Clinic™ with their family doctor. The Working Clinic™ includes access to a phone and tablet app that provides important summary information from clinic visits such as diagnoses, medications, vital signs (like blood pressure and pulse rate), lab results, and other health indicators. Patients can view data on their phone, show the data to their regular doctor, or email themselves summaries of their data that can then be shared with their doctor.

All of the telemedicine technologies used are fully compliant with state Board of Medicine regulations, HIPAA compliant and secure and are at no additional cost to you or the employee
